Washington, D.C. • 1974

The Migratory Bird Hunting Stamp Act, which became effective in 1934, has contributed significantly to waterfowl conservation by providing funds for habitat acquisition and development. Since passage of the Act, all waterfowl hunters age 16 or older in the United States are required to possess a valid Federal Migratory Bird Hunting Stamp, popularly known as a "duck stamp."

Duck stamps, valid for one hunting season, are sold at all first- and second-class post offices and those third- and fourth-class offices having a demand. The number of duck stamps sold is recorded by the U. S. Postal Service and reported to the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service quarterly each fiscal year. The report received at the end of the third quarter contains sales data for individual post offices. Hence, totals can be obtained for counties or, in Alaska where counties have not been established, areas designated as such for this report (Fig. 1). At the end of each fiscal year (June 30), the Postal Service prepares a final report showing total stamp sales by State but not by post office. Therefore, when final figures are desired for counties, we assume that the proportional distribution among post offices at the end of the fiscal year is identical to the distribution at the end of the third quarter.

Relatively few duck stamps are sold during the fourth quarter because all duck hunting seasons have ended. Thus, the final report primarily updates incomplete or erroneous reports submitted previously by individual post offices. Theoretically, figures for stamp sales should be complete and accurate at the end of the year, but recording and reporting errors sometimes occur. The Postal Service has been able to provide sufficient information for the correction of some of these errors, and these corrections have been incorporated into this report. Most errors involve only a few stamps, but occasionally larger discrepancies have been detected. Undoubtedly other errors remain undetected, but the figures are sufficiently accurate for most uses.

The following 10-year summary of duck stamp sales by county, State, flyway, and the United States is presented as a source of data for waterfowl related programs (Tables 1-5). Stamps sold by the Philatelic Sales Unit of the U. S. Postal Service and in Puerto Rico and Hawaii are not included in this report. Some counties near the continental divide in Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, and New Mexico are in different flyways in different years. In this report counties are assigned to the flyway in which they were located in the year to which the figures pertain.

Since numbers and distribution of duck stamps sold approximate numbers and distribution of waterfowl hunters, though not necessarily of hunting activity, these data provide a valuable source of information for programs related to waterfowl conservation. Hence, the purposes of this summary are to provide an indication of the relative numbers of waterfowl hunters in each county in the United States and changes in these relationships during the 10-year period ending 30 June 1971.

As the Nation's principal conservation agency, the Department of the Interior has basic responsibilities for water, fish, wildlife, mineral, land, park, and recreational resources. Indian and Territorial affairs are other major concerns of this department of natural resources.

The Department works to assure the wisest choice in managing all our resources so that each shall make its full contribution to a better United States now and in the future.
